Nottingham's Sporting Culture

Henry Bright

Henry Bright has created work reflecting the cultural importance of sport within the city of Nottingham. He has done this by picking up cut coloured canes which were at a temperature of 750 degrees centigrade these bright and vibrant colours represent the cultural importance of sport within the city especially now as the world is coming out of the global pandemic that was Covid-19. Then Henry has rolled onto the marver in the hotshop to pick up the frit colour representations of the sporting structures of Nottingham. Henry felt so strongly about the cultural importance of sport within the city of Nottingham as before the pandemic he used to work behind the bar at Nottingham Forest's The City Ground and he saw first hand of the cultural importance that sport has in the city. As well he wanted to reflect Nottingham's sporting legacy as Nottingham was voted as being the capital of English Sport in 2015.

Torvill and Dean inspired, elegant and frosted red vase - £180, Nottinghamshire County Cricket Club Colour Inspired frosted glass vase - £150 and Nottingham City of Sport - £450

Artist Bio

Henry Bright will be graduating in 2021 from Design Crafts at De Montfort University and he specializes in glass blowing. He found time during the first lockdown to appreciate Nottingham's sporting heritage on his daily walks and he wanted to promote Nottingham as the great Capital of Sport that it was in 2015, so that people could be inspired to get out and keep fit because as a result of Covid-19 the public will undoubtedly become less active and Henry wanted to showcase the sports that made Nottingham such a sporting city.
