TO YOU FROM ME

Does the machine contemplate the forest, or does the machine show us how it sees the forest? Does the forest provide its space and resources, or do we take them away from it with force? Are we just the spectators of this show or do we initiate this process? The message «TO YOU FROM ME» is universal and can come from all the participants at the same time, or from each one individually. The focus in the relationship triangle «humans – nature – technologies» is constantly shifting, but the choir of their voices never stops. The sound part was made of processed bird singing, human breathing and laptop noises.

The artwork was born from a poem written as a letter to nature. The lines reflect my reasoning about human intervention in nature and its consequences:

On the snail's trail

you never fail.

Like a mushroom net

please explore the debt.

I lie in the grass

it has so much stress.

Birds sing no song

guys, am I wrong?

Rain falls on me

I hope I'm free...

This video is a some sort of a documentation of the meeting of all participants in this process.

Artist Bio

Aleksei Martyniuk is an interdisciplinary artist and filmmaker. In his artistic practice, he often works with the theme of cyclicity and its possible forms. His video artworks do not represent some subjective experience, but rather create conditions for its occurrence for the viewer. They are aimed to expand the viewing experience and create new perceptive situations in which familiar elements of the surrounding world are placed in new contexts.
