Nymph

Althea Keith

Nymphae is one of a series of ceramic wall art pieces which reveal a single narrative over 28 individual wall hung porcelain tiles. The makers have developed a unique process which they call 'Raising Clay' to create work which is highly tactile and responsive to changes in light and shadow as seen from the perspective of the viewer. This is work that can be and should be touched which means this work is also accessible to those that are visually impaired.

Artist Bio

Althea and Keith Martin collaborate together to create ceramic work. We are active members of KLA group and would best describe ourselves as emerging whilst committed to exploring materials, making and sharing our work.
