Colour Piece No. 1

Jasmin Gadema

Jasmin explores texture, movement, and colour through abstract expression, using energetic forms to express energy. Her work also delves into the theme of identity, symbolized by the use of masking tape to conceal, reveal, and reshape oneself.

Artist Bio

I'm a 3rd year university student, studying Fine Art at De Montfort University. I previously had my work displayed in a student-led exhibition on DMU's campus. I approach my work with colour in mind. I like experimenting with colours that unexpectedly match each other, creating an interesting relationship with each colour. Movement and texture are key elements to my work too! If you look long enough, each shape merges and changes, making something that is two dimensional feel like it's three dimensional.
