Botanical Art Prints

The Graphite Botanist

The Graphite Botanist is the work of Tasnim Bulbul, a self-taught botanical artist. She creates intricate graphite drawings inspired by close observation and photography, capturing nature's quiet transformations, blooming, wilting and returning, with precision, depth and a photographer's eye for light.

Artist Bio

I am a self-taught botanical artist and product photographer based in the UK. I work primarily in graphite, combining careful observation with a photographer's eye for light and composition to capture the subtle beauty of plants and flowers. I am a member of the Leicestershire Society of Botanical Illustrators and share my work both in-person and online. My approach balances technical precision with a love of natural textures, creating pieces that are structured yet emotive.

My approach is deeply rooted in observation and patience. I aim to balance structure and precision with the organic flow of nature, capturing textures, forms, and the quiet transformations of plants. Every piece is guided by a desire to reflect both the detail and the spirit of the subject, creating artwork that resonates with both beauty and authenticity.
